Upcoming Exhibitions in Delhi NCR 2026-2027: Your Complete Guide to Pragati Maidan, Yashobhumi & India Expo Centre Greater Noida

Delhi NCR is, without question, the exhibition capital of India. Between Bharat Mandapam (Pragati Maidan), Yashobhumi (IICC Dwarka), and the India Expo Centre & Mart in Greater Noida, the region hosts hundreds of trade fairs every year — covering everything from electronics and EVs to interiors, food, dairy, and defence.

If you're a brand planning to exhibit in 2026, the hardest part usually isn't the stall — it's simply knowing which show to book, when, and how to register. So we put together a running list of the major exhibitions still ahead this year across all three venues, along with their official websites and a step-by-step exhibitor registration guide.

As a Delhi-based exhibition stall design and turnkey fabrication company, we build stalls across all three of these venues regularly — so this list is also the one we keep updated internally for our own clients.

Why Delhi NCR's Exhibition Venues Matter for Your Brand

Each venue has its own personality:

- Bharat Mandapam (Pragati Maidan) — India's flagship government-run exhibition venue, home to the India International Trade Fair and dozens of ITPO-organised shows.
- Yashobhumi (IICC), Dwarka — Asia's newest and largest convention-cum-exhibition complex, built for large-scale international shows, right next to IGI Airport.
- India Expo Centre & Mart, Greater Noida — the NCR's dedicated B2B trade show hub, especially strong for manufacturing, interiors, EVs, and industrial sectors.

Picking the right show at the right venue — and getting your stall design brief locked in early — is half the battle of a successful exhibition.

Here's a quick visual snapshot of the flagship shows over the next few months, followed by the complete list — including 2027 — venue by venue.

Step-by-Step Guide: How to Register as an Exhibitor

Registration steps vary slightly by organiser, but the overall process is the same across Pragati Maidan, Yashobhumi, and Greater Noida. Here's how it works:

1. Shortlist the right exhibition. Match your product category to the show's audience — an interiors brand belongs at India Interior Expo, not an EV expo.
2. Visit the exhibition's official website (listed in the tables above) and look for the "Exhibitor" or "Book a Stall" section — not the general visitor registration page.
3. Download the exhibitor manual/brochure. This document has stall pricing (per sq. m.), hall layout, deadlines, and rules for stall construction and branding.
4. Choose your stall type and size. Most shows offer:
 - Raw/bare space — you build your own stall from scratch (this is where a design partner like us comes in)
 - Shell scheme — a basic pre-built booth with standard walls, fascia, and lighting
5. Submit the exhibitor application form with your company details, product category, and preferred hall/stall number, along with the booking deposit.
6. Receive your stall confirmation and hall plan from the organiser, along with move-in/move-out dates and venue guidelines (height restrictions, load limits, fire safety norms, etc.).
7. Brief your stall design & fabrication partner — share your stall dimensions, brand guidelines, and objectives (lead generation, product launch, brand visibility) so the design can begin well ahead of the move-in date.

8. Get design approval from the organiser, if required — venues like Bharat Mandapam and Yashobhumi often need stall drawings approved before fabrication begins, especially for double-decker or custom structures.
9. Fabrication, delivery & installation at the venue during the designated move-in window.
10. On-ground execution and show days — followed by dismantling within the organiser's specified move-out timeline.

Tip: Deadlines for hall approval, deposits, and stall drawing submissions are usually stricter for Bharat Mandapam and Yashobhumi (government-linked venues) than for private venues. Start your registration process at least 8–12 weeks before your target show wherever possible.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Which is the biggest exhibition venue in Delhi NCR? Yashobhumi (IICC Dwarka) is currently Asia's largest convention-cum-exhibition complex by built-up area, though Bharat Mandapam (Pragati Maidan) remains India's most historically significant and highest-footfall venue, largely due to IITF.

Q: How early should I book a stall for IITF or similar large exhibitions? Ideally 3–4 months in advance. Popular halls and prime locations fill up quickly, and stall design/fabrication also needs adequate lead time.

Q: Can I get a custom stall design even for a shell-scheme booking? Yes — most organisers allow branding overlays, custom furniture, and design add-ons even within a shell scheme, though structural changes are usually reserved for raw/bare space bookings.

Q: Does Kioskra work across all three venues? Yes, our team regularly designs and fabricates stalls at Bharat Mandapam, Yashobhumi, and India Expo Centre & Mart, Greater Noida.

Exhibition dates are subject to change by respective organisers. Please verify final schedules on the official websites linked above before making travel or booking commitments.
